

My Word

key

other information

You could alter this exercise by asking pupils to state definitions and pupils then have to say the word. This could also be adapted into pairs or small groups. There is also the opportunity at the end for pupils to reflect on the exercise and record the words and meaning that they do not have, or check what they have recorded previously. For lower ability pupils you could supply them with the words and meanings, and then ask them to read the words and carry out the exercise to see what they can recall.

instructions

This is an AfL activity that can be used at any point during the lesson or adapted easily into a starter or plenary.

Allow pupils a short period of time to think of words related to the lesson topic and their meaning. You may wish to let pupils write these down.

Randomly select one pupil and ask them to stand up and say their word.

They are then to point at another pupil who must stand up and say what they think is the meaning of the word. If incorrect another member of the class could help them. They then repeat the exercise by pointing at a new person and asking them for the meaning of the new word they say.

To manage this exercise you will also need a class list to record who has been asked to stand up, alternatively you could leave pupils standing once they have had their go.

The table below explains what each icon used on the resources key represents. The key is broken down into 4 categories:
